

Ex-Arkansan Admits Florida Slaying

WINTER GARDEN, Fla. (AP)—Sheriff Dave Starr says that a 24-year-old former Arkansan has admitted the slaying of his landlady and a Winter Garden policeman.

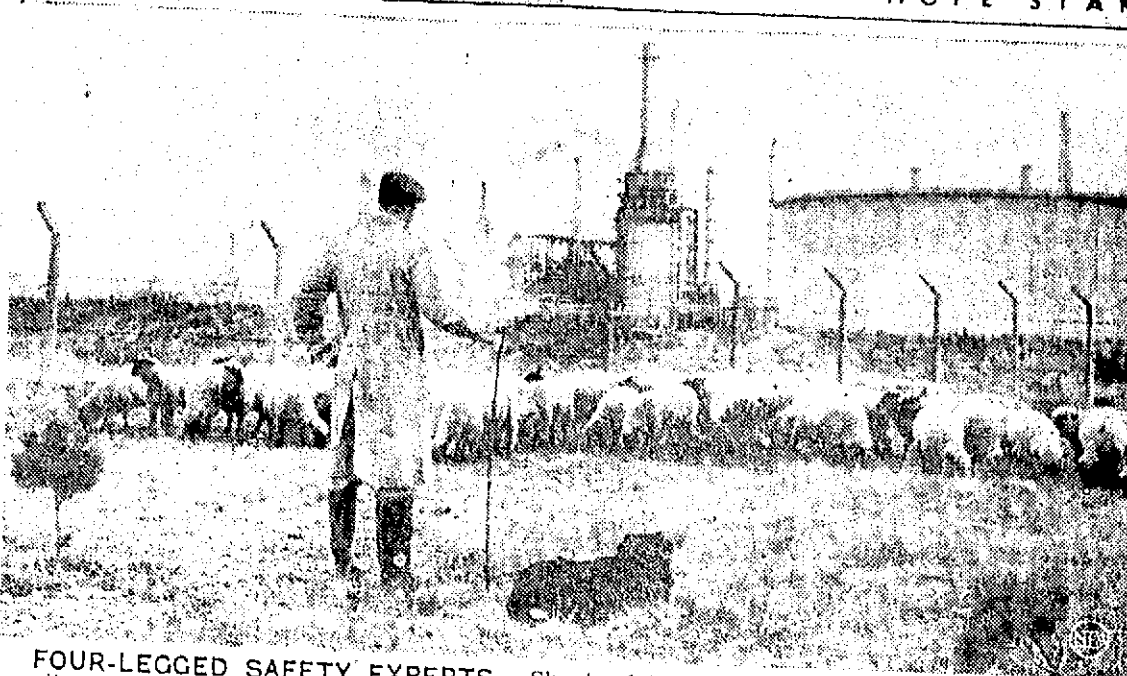

Starr identified the man as Raymond Wagner, a file worker, who once lived at Elaine, Ark.

The two victims were Mrs. Audrey Lorene Larch, 36, and Patrolman Dalton Fleming, 30.

William S. Lamb found his wife dead in a bedroom of their home, where Wagner had been rooming for the last two weeks. She had been shot in the head and the right breast.

Starr said Fleming was killed later in an exchange of shots with the officer tried to arrest Wagner on a downtown street.

The sheriff said deputies who arrested Wagner found Mrs. Lamb's

Mr. and Mrs. Dickerson Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dickerson celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house in their home Sunday, Nov. 29, from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Joe Hart, a granddaughter of Pine Bluff. In the receiving line with the bride couple of 50 years were their nine children, Mrs. Simon Webb of Prescott, Mrs. Sidney Allen of Gordon, Ellis Dickerson of Jacksonville, Buck Dickerson of Prescott, Mrs. W. B. Smith of Alabaster, Ala., Mrs. J. C. Tolleson, West Memphis, Mrs. Bob Parker of Bryan Texas and Herbert Dickerson of Mr. Ida, Ark.

Mrs. Dickerson was lovely in a light blue wool dress and pinned an orchid corsage at her shoulder. Mr. Dickerson wore a white boutonniere on a blue suit. The daughters were each wearing a yellow carnation corsage and the sons boutonnières.

The home was decorated with bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and potted plants sent by friends. In front of a mirror above the mantel in the living room was a long bronze planter filled with gold magnolia leaves and large white mums in glitter interspersed with white wedding bells. On either side of the arrangement were burning yellow tapers in brass holders.

Miss Gloria Smith of Alabaster, Ala., was on hand to assist.

A .25-caliber pistol was found where Fleming was shot.

Ain, a grand daughter, displayed the gifts in the bedroom and Miss Paula Edwards had charge of the guest book. Both were coronations of white chrysanthemums. The tea table in the dining room was beautiful with a white cut work cloth over yellow and held the lovely four tiered cake, topped with white wedding bells and surrounded with fern, wedding bells and small chrysanthemums. Placed in front of the cake was the number "50" in gold. The number "50" in gold was repeated on the individual white cakes served with white mints, nuts, yellow punch and coffee.

The daughters in law, wearing white corsages, dispensed hospitality in the dining room. Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Buck Dickerson. Mrs. Ellis Dickerson served the cake and Mrs. Herbert Dickerson presided over the coffee service.

Approximately 150 called during the appointed hours. The honorees were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McCain, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thompson and Lana, Mr. and Mrs. George Hartsfield, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Goad and Mrs. Dwight Pankey of Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Mack Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Odie DeHann of Mrs. Thomas Dewdney of Gordon; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Christensen and children of Mrs. Lela Tolleson of Arkadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hart and Diane of Pine Bluff.

Becky Garrett Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Garrett honored their daughter, Becky, with a party at their home on Saturday afternoon to celebrate her ninth birthday.

Naandina berries in colorful arrangements were placed at vantage points in the rooms.

After Becky opened her gifts, games were played with prizes going to Nita Beth Lambert and Becky.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with the white birthday cake decorated in red and topped with red candles and the figure nine. Red candles in crystal holders flanked each side. Favors were horns and blow outs.

Miss Daniel Entertains

Miss Bernice Daniel of Chicago entertained with an informal coffee in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Daniel.

Guests were former schoolmates of Miss Daniel and included Mrs. Blake Crow of Magnolia, Mrs. Carl Culpepper of Texarkana, Mrs. Harold Pollock of Oklahoma City, Mrs. Shell Blakely of Memphis and Mrs. Martha Lee Johnson of Grand Prairie, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Guthrie Jr. and Doug and Paula spent Sunday in Hope as the guests of Mrs. Pauline Hudson.

Recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Daniel have been Mr. and Mrs. Mildred Dawson.

Cooper's remarks might be construed as an indirect reply to McDonald on that.

President Eisenhower's stand that the government will have to work out a settlement with the industry and the union under increased pressure to reach a settlement.

But only recently Khrushchev said one Soviet plant was turning out 250 missiles a year, which would be a lot more than the 10 McElroy said the Soviet Union had.

McElroy said the administration will ask Congress for money so that bombers capable of carrying nuclear weapons can be maintained on an airborne alert.

The money would go, he said, to buy additional engines for B52 strategic bombers and to train Air Force crews so that some degree of airborne alert can be ordered when the Joint Chiefs of Staff conclude the Soviet Union has a substantial ICBM lead.

The B52 is a jet bomber capable of making 550 miles an hour and with a range of over 6,000 miles without refueling. Soviet jet fighters which would try to intercept the bombers can do up to 500 miles an hour.

This country is going in for B52 model jet bombers which can fire the Hound-Dog missile. This weapon, carrying a nuclear warhead, can be fired from the bomber at a target 500 miles ahead.

McElroy explained: If the Soviets build the number of ICBMs they are capable of building and if the United States builds the number it now intends to, the Soviets will have more missile capability over most of a three-year period.

McElroy was defense secretary 26 months. Under his direction this country developed its first intercontinental ballistic missile, the Atlas, and worked toward perfecting more advanced weapons.

But as time went on and the Soviets inflicted one embarrassment after another on this country in space development, plus their missile boasting, the Democrats protested the administration wasn't doing enough to keep up or get ahead.

Last winter McElroy finally said this country didn't plan trying to match the Soviets missile for missile.

McElroy Says Reds Ahead With Missiles

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON, (AP)—As one of his last acts in office, Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy conceded the Soviets will be ahead of this country in missiles for another three years.

Since the Democrats have hammered at the Eisenhower administration for months—complaining that it lacked a sense of urgency in meeting the Soviet missile challenge—next month's opening of Congress should be a fiery one.

McElroy made his statement Tuesday shortly before leaving office to go back into private business and just a few hours after Premier Nikita Khrushchev boasted in Hungary the USSR now has enough nuclear rockets to flatten all its foes.

But McElroy made these two points:

1. As of today, he said, the Soviet Union, and the United States have about the same number of long-range missiles and the number is "quite small" on both sides.

Last July he estimated the Soviet Union had fewer than 12 intercontinental ballistic missiles capable of hitting the United States. He said then that over-all the United States could more than match Soviet ICBM capabilities.

But only recently Khrushchev said one Soviet plant was turning out 250 missiles a year, which would be a lot more than the 10 McElroy said the Soviet Union had.

McElroy said the administration will ask Congress for money so that bombers capable of carrying nuclear weapons can be maintained on an airborne alert.

A total of $35,000 was bequeathed to Methodist churches in Evanston, Ill., Wellman, Iowa, and Crossett, Ark.

Metals Almost Sure to Go Up Next Year

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The chances seem growing today that manufacturers may have to pay higher prices next year for basic metals. This seems so despite the incidence of steel management that it is set on holding the price line.

Whether steel prices go up awaits the settlement of the dispute in that industry over wage increases and working rules. But when the government steps in—as is now threatened if labor and management can't come to an agreement—the historical pattern has been to grant wage increases which the companies contend must be offset by price hikes.

With manufacturers' steel inventories so low, they could put up little fight against paying what the steel companies might ask.

Copper prices have firmed up already, due to a supply shortage in that strike beset industry. Final labor contracts will help set the price pattern there—perhaps still higher prices.

The aluminum industry makes no bones about wanting to raise prices—if it can get away with it in the face of foreign competition. Aluminum companies also have labor contracts to hammer out. These are being held up awaiting the outcome of the wage and rules dispute in the steel industry.

But aluminum management contends that even without another pay boost their present prices already are to low under current operating costs.

In industries where contracts have been signed this year, the wage scales plus fringe benefits have gone up an average of 10 cents an hour.

Still other industries will increase wage payments next year under old contracts providing for them. And thousands of workers get more pay when the cost-of-living index reaches new peaks.

All this is why many manufacturers see rough sledding ahead in holding down their own operating costs—and hence the prices of their own products.

Receiver Named for Florida Estate

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Federal Judge J. Smith Henley has appointed Beverly J. Lambert Jr., a West Memphis banker, as receiver of the properties of Andrew and George Florida of Osceola.

Lambert was directed yesterday to manage the Florida assets and properties until an $11,700,025 day claim by the federal government is settled.

The Floridas' corporations, except the Reserve Estate Life Insurance Co., were included in the receivership.

The government had requested that a receiver be appointed. Government attorneys said the Florida brothers were disposing of their assets and that if something wasn't done to stop it, there wouldn't be enough left to satisfy the claims.

Youth 10th State Victim of Polio

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A three-year-old Gould boy became Arkansas' 10th polio victim Tuesday in a Little Rock hospital, the State Health Department reports.

He was David Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Wright, Dr. A. M. Washburn, director of the department's division of communicable disease control, said yesterday the child was stricken last week with paralytic polio.

A total of 229 cases of polio have been reported in Arkansas so far this year, compared with 25 for the same period in 1958.

Interest was a dried arrangement seen in the home, carrying out the full color motif.

Besides the club members, Mrs. Barton Barber and Mrs. Bill Watson were also guests. Mrs. Barber won both the high score and the game prizes and the second prize went to Mrs. Johnny Brannan.

Delicious dessert and coffee were served for refreshments.

DOROTHY DIX

Sauce for the Goose Is Sauce for Ganders!

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and I have been married two years. He kisses me when he comes home but rarely utters more than 21 words on the evening, yet when friends drop in, he has much to say. Alone with me, he does nothing but watch TV, or read the paper. He speaks only when he wants to have a cup of coffee or change the channel on TV. I've pleaded with him to talk for just a few minutes. He always says he's got a lot on his mind.

Do you believe this? How can I get him to want to talk with me? We tried everything but he just doesn't seem to have any interest. And yet he tells me constantly, "I love you."

What news I hear is second hand. — Lonesome

Dear Lonesome: Give your husband a dose of his own medicine. Stop making conversation. Be as mum as he but do it with grace. My mother — as gay and talkative a person as ever lived — once tried this on my father — sphyx, if there ever was one. At dinner he said nothing, nor did she. After dinner he started to read a newspaper. Still she said nothing. Unable to stand it any longer, he flung down the newspaper and implored her to speak. "Did he hurt her feelings? Was she sick? What in heaven's name was wrong?"

"Nothing," she smiled sweetly. "I've just got a lot to think about."

He took the hint. At last she had his undivided attention!

Queen of Duck Call Contest Is Selected

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP)—Carolyn Findley, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Findley of Stuttgart, was crowned Queen of the Duck Call Contest last night at the festivities of the World Championship Duck Calling Contest being held here this week.

The blue-eyed blonde competed with 38 other girls in the Grand Prairie Beauty Pageant. She succeeds Mary Kerkelack of Stuttgart and will reign at the Queen of the Duck Call Contest tomorrow night.

The annual duck call party is tonight. Brooks Henry of Memphis, incoming president of the Memphis Cotton Exchange, will be the main speaker.

Festivities began Tuesday with a parade. The actual duck calling will take place Saturday. The world championship is wide open since W. C. Cross Greenwood Miss., who won in 1957 and 1958, did not enter this year. Contest officials said a dozen regional champions would compete. The winner received a $1,000 U.S. savings bond.

Miss Findley, a Stuttgart High School student, is a drum major in the Stuttgart band and a former Miss Arkansas County.

A highlight of the past two celebrations has been the Rice Bowl football game, but it was called off this year because an suitable opponent could be found for Arkansas State Teachers College, the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference champion.

Worker Killed in Oil Well Accident

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—A strikebound oil well near here exploded yesterday, killing a 51-year-old oil company worker who was helping to re-cement it.

M. S. Burns of Strong, was the victim. He and three other men were hauling the casing out of the well so it could resume operation following settlement of the long American Oil Co. strike.

Burns was working 83 feet up on the derrick when a gas pocket sent oil gushing to the top of the 87 foot structure. Burns was drenched. A second later a spark from a machine being used to pull the casing from the hole ignited the oil and gas, turning the derrick into a huge torch.

NLR Voters Okay Improvement Plan

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—North Little Rock voters yesterday approved a five-part capital improvement program for the city.

Included were favorable majorities for all five separate items — a new health clinic, a new public open space, W. C. Cross Greenwood Miss., who won in 1957 and 1958, did not enter this year. Contest officials said a dozen regional champions would compete. The winner received a $1,000 U.S. savings bond.

A highlight of the past two celebrations has been the Rice Bowl football game, but it was called off this year because an suitable opponent could be found for Arkansas State Teachers College, the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference champion.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX:

My husband and I have been married 39 years. When we are alone we enjoy each other's company but when there is one or more persons around, I can't say a word without being belittled by his sarcastic remarks. This makes me feel terrible. I can't take it any more. I have always been this way even around our children. Now he wonders why I do not want to go where we will meet people. I have told him the reason. He thinks I shouldn't let it bother me but it does and very deeply. To what would you advise me to do? — Belittled

Dear Belittled: You will be put upon as long as you permit your husband to get away with it. If you don't respect yourself, no one else will. The very next time your husband slings one of his sarcastic remarks at you, calmly walk out and leave him to toss off his borishness as best he can with your friends. They'll give three cheers for your spunk and so will he if he has any sense of fair play.

Certainly you are sensitive. What self-respecting wife wouldn't be if made public target for her husband's jibes? Meekness is not always a virtue.

Bobcats Open Cage Season Friday Night

Hope's Bobcats officially open the 1959-60 basketball season in Jones' Field House Friday night with two games against the Nashville Scrappers. Saturday night the locals entertain Lewisville here.

Coach Don Sevier has six returning lettermen in Smiley, Walton, Thurman, Ervin, T. Jones and Vaughn. This year's team is of unknown quality but should be stronger in bench strength than in the past two seasons.

In fact Coach Sevier will start the season using the platoon system. One group includes Smiley and Calhoun at guards; Churchwell, Walton, Thurman at forwards; Vaughn at center. The other group has Ervin, Duke and Teddy Jones at guards; Robinson and Amett, forwards; Tommy Jones and Walters at center. The Coach is hopeful his platoon plan will work out all during the season.

The local Juniors will also take on the Nashville Juniors, the first game starting at 7 o'clock.

Sooners May Come Back in Basketball

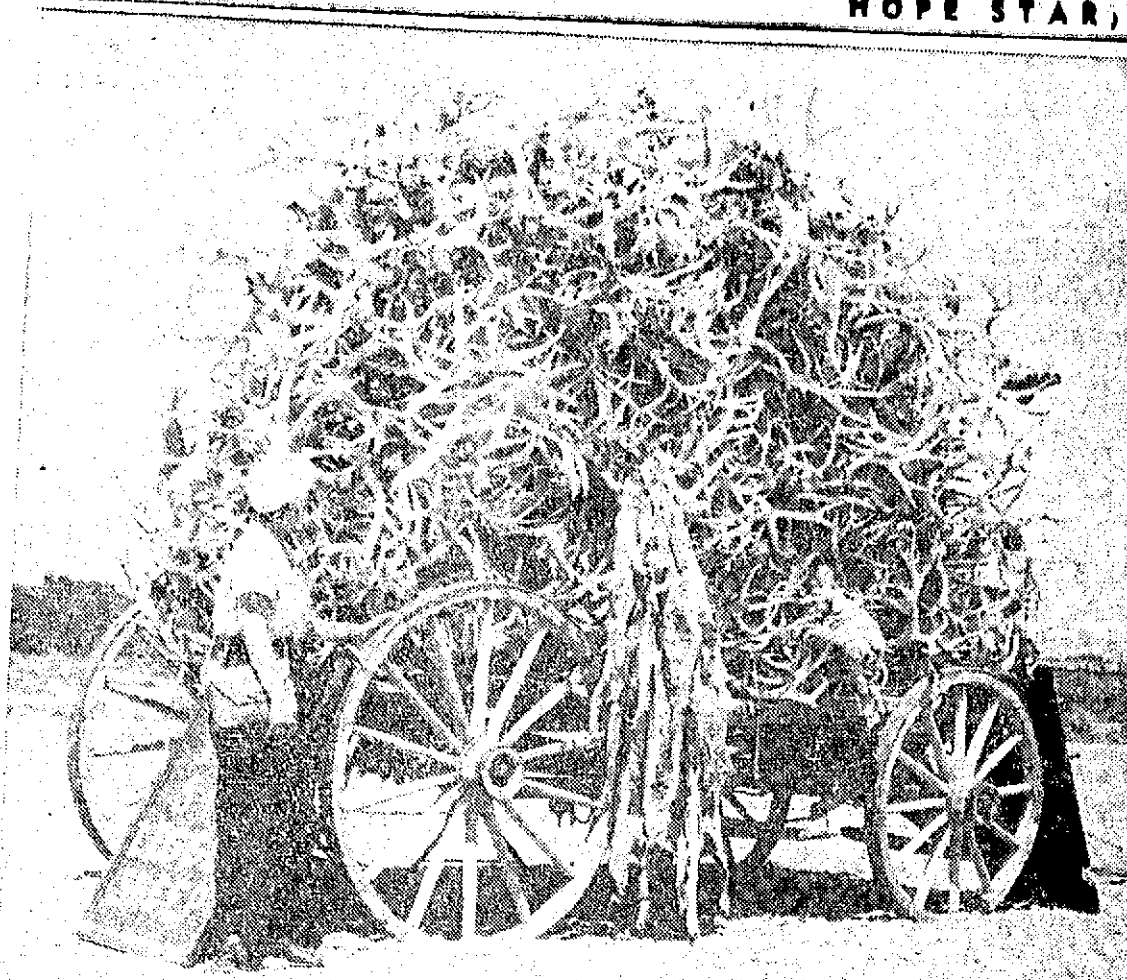

By HUGH FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Oklahoma's Sooners, who used to have as big a name in basketball as they now have in football, may be on their way back to challenge the rule of Kansas State and Kansas in Big Eight cage competition.

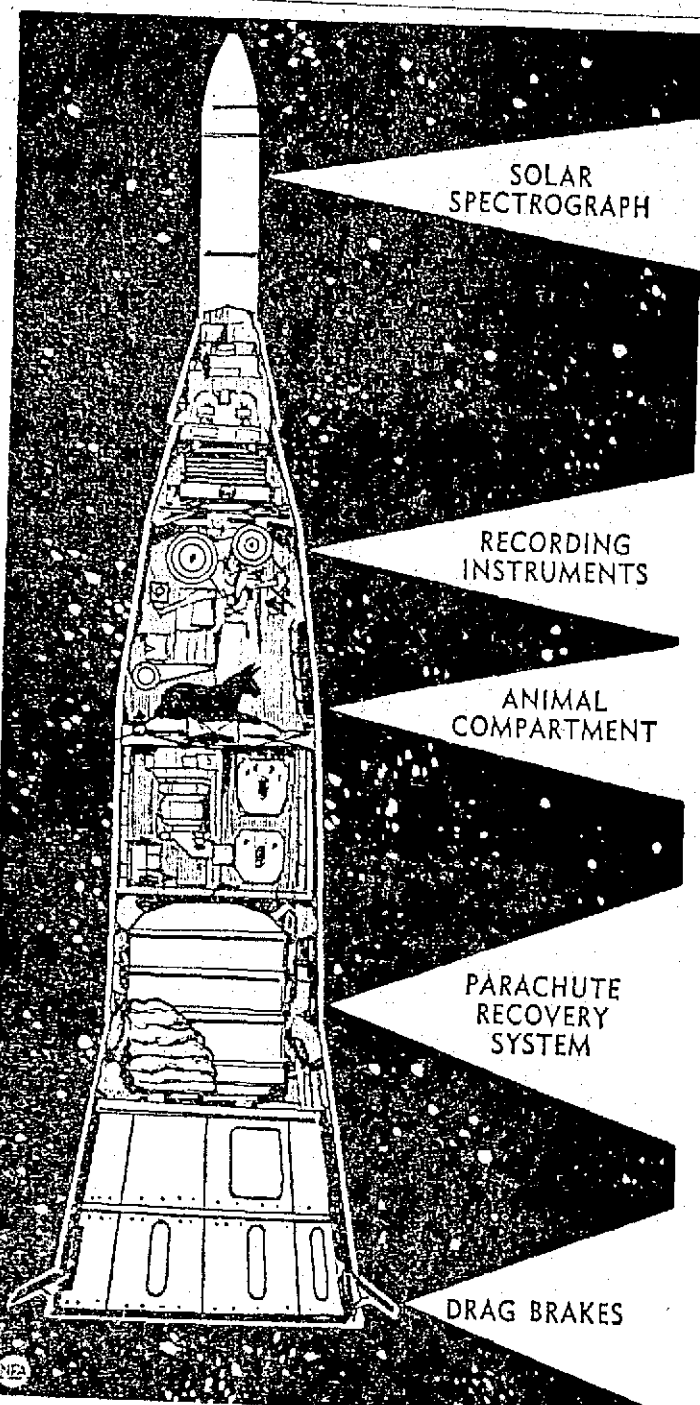

Not since 1949 has Oklahoma had even a share of the conference title. It was a distant second to Kansas State last season. But in opening the 1959-60 season Wednesday night with a 76-58 victory over Texas Western, Coach Doyle Parrack displayed a wealth of sophomore talent to back up a big crop of holdovers.

A highly praised sophomore was unveiled as Seton Hall opened with an easy 84-37 victory over the University of Toronto. Art Hicks has been called the Hall's best prospect in ten years and he justified Coach Honey Russell's high opinion of him by netting 19 points and taking 15 rebounds in 24 minutes of play.

Pittsburgh, minus All-American Don Hannon this season but with Dick Falenski pouring in 23 points, trounced Michigan of the Big Ten 73-57. Villanova turned back Princeton, last year's Ivy League

RADIOACTIVE ANTILERS—These antlers, shed by the deer they once decorated, are piled up on a wagon in Jackson Hole, Wyo. DOG GONE HIGH—Russia claims to have fired dog-carrying rockets as high as 320 miles and recovered the animals alive. Cutaway drawing above shows one of the rockets the Russians have been using in their biomedical researches and is based on details published in Aviation Week magazine. This one, designated the "A-2," is a one-stage vehicle with an altitude range of about 130 miles. Solar spectrograph (for photographing the sun) is at top. Sealed and pressurized dog compartment is surrounded by instruments. Recovery is by parachute.

Joe Brown Retains His Fight Crown

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Lightweight champion Joe Brown, a skittish 34-year-old, stopped another charge of youth Wednesday night when he beat Britisher Dave Charnley on a technical knockout.

And a few minutes later the champion said he would be ready to fight again only a week hence.

Brown didn't have any particular fighter in mind but declared he would like to get somebody for Dec. 9.

"No use wasting all that training—that's the hardest part of it," he explained. "I'm not hurt and I'm ready to go."

Charnley, the 24-year-old ex-boxer from Dartford, Kent, who is called "the midjet Mercutio" because he has shoulders and neck like a heavyweight, never was in the fight with the Balon Rouge, La., Negro, making the eighth defense of his title in 39 months. It tied the number of defenses by Benny Leonard, who set the record in the lightweight class before he retired undefeated in 1925.

Brown was leading by as many as five points in the fifth round when he lashed out with a left and then a right and crimson spread down the right cheek of the 24-year-old Briton as a deep cut put his glove to his head and staggered back just as the bell rang, ending the round.

Charnley shuffled to his corner and while his handlers worked over him, Referee Jimmy Webb raised Brown's hand and led the champion to the center of the ring.

Arthur Boggs, manager of Charnley, claimed it was a cut that caused the cut but that it was unintentional. However, Webb ruled that it was a hard right and that Brown had won on a technical knockout in the sixth round since the fifth was over when the fight was stopped.

Brown verified that it was a right that put Charnley away. He said he got the British fighter on a right uppercut following a left. "That's the one that ripped him open," said Brown. "But I would have knocked him cold anyway if I hadn't cut him."

Under the National Parks Service's plans for the battlefield, there will be no commercial enterprises inside the park itself.

Böhlinger said Parks Service officials wanted to hold a ceremony on Washington at which the state would transfer title to the land. "But this will be an Arkansas battle," he said. "I insisted the ceremony would meet with government officials at Pea Ridge early next year."

"I've been working on this project for 29 years," Böhlinger said. "And I'll keep watching it even after it's out of the hands of the state commission."

The battle of Pea Ridge, fought March 6-7, 1862, is judged as a draw by historians. Confederate troops under Gen. Earl Van Dorn pushed the Union Army back on the first day but ran out of ammunition and were forced to withdraw about 10 a.m. on March 7.

"But the battle is significant because it forced Van Dorn to abandon his plans to push through Missouri to attack St. Louis," Böhlinger said.

Predicts Good Duck Hunting in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Game and Fish Commission Director Nelson Cox predicts a good duck hunting season for Arkansas, but quail enthusiasts have it even better this year.

"We have a wonderful quail crop this year," Cox said yesterday. "We have reports of hunters getting their limits even when their dogs don't point. When you can walk up a limit of quail, it's a good year."

Cox said quail seemed to be distributed over the state.

The director was not sure about duck population. "We won't have an absolute idea until we finish our aerial survey of duck areas this week end," he said. "But I'd say we have a lot of ducks."

Cox said a commission enumeration counted 400,000 ducks in the Stuttgart area on a light Tuesday.

Game and Fish Commission planes will participate today and tomorrow in the U.S. Fish and Wildlife's survey of duck population in the entire Mississippi Valley flyway. Other states will be surveyed on the same day and the Atlanta Fish and Wildlife office will prepare a composite picture of the situation from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Cox said the Arkansas water situation was air but that a general rain was needed to fill reservoirs on several public hunting areas over the state.

The director said reports from early hunters indicated a good duck year. The season opened at noon Monday. It ends Jan. 8. The Fish and Wildlife Service, fearing poor production because of bad breeding conditions this summer, thinned the season to 40 days. Daily bag limit remains at four ducks with possession still at eight birds.

Acquisition of Park Land Near Finish

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Land acquisition for the proposed Pea Ridge National Battlefield Park in Benton County should be completed this month, Neil Böhlinger said today.

Böhlinger, chairman of the Pea Ridge National Park Commission, said the state would turn over about 4,000 acres to the federal government which then will determine the land to commemorate the Civil War Battle of Pea Ridge.

"There's no indication now of when the park will be ready," Böhlinger said. "The state has done its part when it turns over the land. But I think the National Park Service would like to have the park at shape for the Civil War Centennial which begins in 1961."

Provision of the Pea Ridge Park no great a long headache for Böhlinger, but one he asked for and does not regret.

"This will be the first battle site park west of the Mississippi and one of the largest in the country," he said. "Arkansas can be proud of it."

The purchase started when the federal government indicated it would acquire a park area of about 1,200 acres. The 1957 Legislature appropriated funds to buy about 2,500 acres. Then the National Park Service said it would acquire more land to protect fringe areas against commercial development. The 1958 Legislature set aside an additional $250,000 for the purchase.

The purchase of the Pea Ridge National Battlefield Park is a landmark in the state's history. It is the first time the state has turned over land to the federal government for a national park.

Have you ever wondered how they put together all those little pieces of tile on a bathroom floor? Well, wonder no more. Here's the secret:

All those tiny tiles are pasted on a sheet of paper, so a tile man just has to strip the sheet—its pattern held firmly in place—into a job of cement.

Next question: How do they get the tiles pasted onto the paper? Ah, that's one of the complexities that makes watching the manufacture of the ceramic tile fascinating.

LITTLE LIZ

Almost anyone can hold a conversation, but too many don't know when to let go.

Most of the time, the conversation is a mix of the certain, the unpredictable, and the ironic. This is the ironic: Wherever he said it himself: He will try to spread goodwill for this country everywhere he goes.

There are the unpredictable: What problems the various heads of government will discuss, what solutions they'll ask him for, his reaction and his health.

This is the ironic: WHEREVER goes the Communists will probably turn out in mobs to cheer him.

At his news conference Wednesday Eisenhower looked in excellent health. But he is entering upon a rugged mission for a 69-year-old man who in the past four years has had a heart attack, an intestinal operation and a slight stroke.

He said his doctors think he can stand up all right. He knows, however, he will be some fatigue. What he can't tell is how he will react to the various kinds of food put in front of him. And he'll have to attend a lot of ceremonial dinners.

No other President has ever embarked upon an expedition like this. But the country seems to be taking it calmly and, apparently, without any excited expectations.

That's natural enough. After these years of the cold war the lesson has sunk in that changes for the better come slowly. No

One thing may work to its great disadvantage. After making the rounds in Southern Europe, North Africa and Western Asia, Eisenhower will settle down several days in Paris for pre-summit talks with Western Allied leaders.

They will be discussing the position they should take next year in a summit conference with Khrushchev, particularly how they'll answer his demands that the Allies get their troops out of West Berlin.

By the time Eisenhower reaches Paris he should be pretty well worn out by his tour of three continents and therefore may not be in the best condition to cope with Allied problems.

AT STERLING, Ky. (AP)—A Sterling hardware store discovered last year it had been paying a supply store's water bill for 14 years because of a meter mix-up.

It's all squared now. The supply firm discovered this week it had been paying the hardware firm's electric bill for 15 years for the same reason.

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP)—The Army paid some 5,000 enlisted men at Aberdeen Proving Ground in $2 bills this week in an effort to determine the buying habits of soldiers.

Col. G. F. Powell, deputy commander of the post, ordered the distribution of 175,000 $2 bills, which represents almost 10 percent of Aberdeen's $3,750,000 monthly payroll for 10,000 military and civilian workers.

The Army said it hopes to receive reports on the "informal survey" from banks, grocery stores and other retail establishments.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Joseph (Soy) Dubrovny, the sculptor of nude actresses, has an 18-inch gold statue of Beverly Aadland in one in expecting miracles, not even Eisenhower.

If the President had taken this trip early in the summer—before Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit here and while the Kremlin was still acting tough—Communists everywhere would probably have tried to ruin any reception for Eisenhower.

Not now and for a couple of reasons: 1. The Kremlin is pushing the peace theme vigorously since the Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting and the "spirit of Camp David" is still floating around over the earth.

2. Khrushchev, who got along well with Eisenhower, wants a summit meeting. Any Communist demonstrations against the President might spoil the relationship and wreck chances for the summit.

If Eisenhower has any bad or embarrassing moments on this trip it will probably dampen his enthusiasm for personal visits.

Trial of 19 in Segregation Case Delayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Another postponement was granted today in the trials of 19 persons arrested during a segregationist demonstration near Central High School last Aug. 12, the day public high schools opened with token integration.

Municipal Judge Quinn Glover postponed the cases for an indefinite time. It was the fifth postponement.

Glover said he was passing the cases until the Arkansas Supreme Court rules on the defendants' appeal from a denial of a writ of prohibition.

Attorneys for the defendants had asked Pulaski Circuit Court for the writ to keep Glover from hearing the cases. Glover earlier had denied a request for a change of venue.

Circuit Judge William J. Kirby denied the writ. The defendants' attorneys, Amis Gudridge and Roy Finch Jr., yesterday filed notice of appeal to the Supreme Court.

None of the defendants, who are charged with various offenses stemming from the police break-up of the demonstration, appeared in court today.

One nude and is wondering whether he can collect for it from Errol Flynn's estate.

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Lester Lehn had a little trouble getting the federal government to take his $100. He gave the Treasury a rather original idea and they didn't know what to do.

Lehn, owner of a Trailer Sales Agency, wants to help the federal space agency build a rocket that will put the Soviets to shame.

The U.S. Treasury spent three months trying to decide in which account to put Lehn's $100. Finally, Lehn had to tell them.

He suggested an open account so any citizen could contribute to the cause. His $100 was accepted and he sent another $100 check. And someone else added $1 to the cause.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The 1950 special legislative session got under way today to wind up the loose ends of Gov. J. P. Coleman's outgoing administration.

The governor called the session to handle what he called emergency matters, reduce work for the 1950 regular legislature and tidy up his administration before Gov.-elect Ross Barnett takes office.

slightly against the hardness of the bench. Davey drew his wasted, turtle-like, deeper into folds of his overcoat, sure by now that his park this morning was stiff. As profitless as the downtown was, it had this spot beat. Otis sighed and noted with bitter that it was so cold. Not in bad weather, not finer, if you wanted the misma. Had believed in it for nearly all of the 61 years of his complaining life.

A line thing. Otis thought At 61, almost 62, here he sat, cold and friendless on this lousy park bench. Here he sat waiting for some aristocrat to come along and shell out a couple of coins -- enough for the day's grub and a couple of cheap wines to warm him through the night.

With a shrug of resignation, Otis took up his newspaper, and eventually reached copy whose recent tenancy in a city trash can was evidenced by a narrow grease stain along the outer margin. Moistening a cold blue finger against an equally cold blue lip, he turned with aloof indifference to the society page. At the same time, however, his gaze was attracted to the moving van parked at the curb before the large brick apartment building across the street. With no particular interest he observed a small, tentative figure in a tan sweater and brown pants making its way up the ramp at the back of the van and into the interior.

Otis held no specific views about kids. He was neither anti nor pro. In his catch-as-catch-can world they hardly existed.

The interior of the van, Davey found, was almost like a room. As his eyes grew accustomed to the deeper dimness at the end of the van he was able to make out the furniture the men had carried up and placed there. There was the divan and the two chairs from the living room. The divan stood on end in the far corner, a soiled pad wrapped around and beneath it to protect it from the sides and floor of the van. The two chairs, also wrapped, lay face down, one upon the other, their backs shoved into the open space provided by the interior of the divan. The rolled carpet had been placed against the wall leading away from the divan.

The van, at least this interior part of it, began to be dissociated from the two men who had brought it. The presence of the furniture, the actual sight of it here inside, somehow made the van a place that was more his than theirs.

Lost in these reflections he did not hear the approach of the moving men until they had already emerged from the apartment house and were on their way down the steps.

Davey saw that there was only one place of practical concealment and he made his way swiftly toward it. Skirting around the upholstered chairs, he peered into the darkness that lay between the back wall of the truck and the upended divan. There was only the narrowest of margins for him to crawl through, but the divan with the chair wedged into it provided an ideal hiding place, a small, dark cube of space into which he would just fit.

Placing his back flat against the chill metal wall he wriggled forward. At the same time he looked up and saw with horror that the dark man's head was rising over the edge of the divan. He was bent forward under the weight of a heavy chest and his gaze was turned downward. There was a jarring thump as the dark man lowered the chest into place nearby. Davey was overwhelmed with a magical feeling of invisibility as the man departed.

Even after they had gone, he made no move to extricate himself. His present situation was warm and soft and dark -- and somehow deeply gratifying. Resting his cheek more comfortably against the back of the divan he let his thoughts drift, let some of the soreness in his small, weary soul ease away. Somehow he felt he had perpetrated an exceedingly daring and clever joke. He had managed to escape, to go away to a secret place where nobody could ever find him.

When they missed him pretty soon and started to look for him -- who in they finally began to realize he had simply gone away into nowhere, where they could never find him unless he said so -- then they would feel sorry. They would cry probably, and say how much they missed him and put a sign in the window saying that if he would only come back to them they would give up the new place and be nice to him again like they used to be.

The better to visualize this gratifying scene, Davey turned on his side, curled up into the warm softness of the divan and closed his eyes.

Chapter IV

As she finished wiping out the cupboards with a damp cloth, Carol Cleaves dropped the cloth into the sink and, with a sigh of accomplishment, turned to Mrs. Primus. "There," she said, "all through. Oh, am I glad I listened to you and packed the good things yesterday. She glanced toward the doorway. "I thought movers were always supposed to be so slow."

Mrs. Primus nodded sagely. "Usually they are. Usually they have to stop and discuss everything until you think there just isn't any way it can be done at all."

"Well, then these men are unique in their trade. You'd think they were more anxious to get out of here than we are." Posing, brushing back a wayward lock of Auburn hair that had fallen down over her forehead, she glanced absently around making a last-minute check.

"Anyway," Mrs. Primus said with a touch of complacency, "we stayed ahead of them."

The two women turned to the doorway expectantly. As usual the dark man entered in advance of the blond one, who seemed always to move hesitatingly in his shadow. He stopped, nodding toward the boxes. "That the last?" he asked.

Carol nodded. "That's all." She waited for him to turn away, but he remained before her, his gaze steady upon her face. His lips parted in a crooked grin. "You sure?"

Carol felt a rising uneasiness and then anger as the man's gaze continued to meet her own with brutal directness. "Of course I am," she said evenly. "Why shouldn't I be?"

The man's grin widened slightly as though he was pleased at this mild show of resistance. "If you were a man," he drawled, "you'd know you can't count on a female to be sure about anything."

Carol felt the color rising in her cheeks. Her lips parted in a little in dismay. She was sure there had been something premeditatedly personal both in the man's tone and choice of words. Evidently Mrs. Primus had felt it too, for Carol sensed the older woman's quick glance. The blond man, who had retreated to the boxes in the corner, looked around with anxiety.

"Come on, Bill," he said softly. "Sure, Eddie, sure." His gaze clung to Carol. "I was just kidding."

Hearing footsteps out in the dining room, Carol looked quickly to the doorway. With a sigh of relief, she saw that it was Bill. "We've just finished," she said.

Appearing in the doorway, Bill grinned, nodded to Mrs. Primus. "That's great." He turned to the dark man. "You boys do a nice fast job."

The dark man cast him a brief glance of appraisal, and then, without answering, turned away. Crossing to the corner where the blond man waited beside the boxes, he picked up the two larger ones, leaving the last and the smallest. Coming into the room, Bill looked at Carol and started to speak, but something in her expression stopped him.

"What's the matter?" Bill asked.

"I don't know," Carol hesitated. "There's something about the man -- the dark one --"

Bill turned to her, alerted. "Did he do something?"

Carol shook her head. "Oh, no. No, he didn't do anything." "Then what is it? What's wrong?"

"Well, I don't know exactly. It wasn't what he said --" Suddenly she smiled, making a small, dismissive gesture with her hand. "Anyway, it certainly doesn't matter. Whatever his problem is, he's a sensational mover."

The mood in the empty kitchen instantly brightened. Taking the damp cloth from the sink where Carol had dropped it, Mrs. Primus wrung it out and put it over the faucet to dry.

"I finished downstairs just in time," Bill said. He turned to Mrs. Primus. "And while we're all being so darned efficient I'd better give you your check. If I don't I'm sure to forget."

Bill handed her a check. "There you are," he said lightly. "And bless you for everything." Leaning forward, he kissed her briefly on the cheek.

Mrs. Primus contrived to look scandalized but failed as her broad plain face came alive with a wide, pleased grin. Starting to fold the check and put it away, she glanced down at it and stopped. "This is for more than you owe me. Look, you made a mistake."

Bill shook his head. "I tucked on a small bonus -- for all the extra work."

"Sure. For putting up with us -- and babying us." He gave her a broad, confidential wink. "And for kidding Carol into thinking she was running this joint."

"Well --" Tears started in Mrs. Primus' eyes, but she blinked them back. "Thank you."

"Thanks nothing." Bill moved off toward the entry. "Now I've got to stir. I've got to run down to the garage and bring the car around for the rest of the shift."

He reached out, touched Mrs. Primus' arm. "Goodbye, Mrs. Primus. We'll be seeing you."

The two women watched Bill as he disappeared into the hall, then Mrs. Primus turned back to Carol with smiling anticipation.

"Now," she said, "where's my boy Davey?"

Labels Duck Call Statement Impractical

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP) — A declaration by an international champion that ducks would make better judges than humans in a duck calling contest drew a fusillade of protest today.

Folks in this home of the World's Champion Duck Calling Contest bristled over the statement by Raleigh Newman, 29, of Lake Charles, La.

Newman gave his views in explaining why he wouldn't participate in the Stuttgart event. The world's champion will be decided here Saturday night.

The Louisiana said he thought a true duck calling test would be one held in the marsh with hunters trying to lure ducks instead of judges.

This alone was enough to quicken tempers at Stuttgart. But Newman, the 1957 international duck calling champion and the reigning world's goose calling king, also said judges are favoring an "artificial" Arkansas-style duck call. It's inferior to the Louisiana-type call, he said.

Contest chairman Leavell Smith snapped in comment on Newman's remarks: "I'm not much of a duck caller as Arkansas callers go but I'll take him on personally and let him set the conditions."

Immediate reaction in these parts was that Newman is just afraid to match calls and risk losing his reputation.

It was pointed out that only one Arkansas caller will be in the contest and that judges will come from throughout the nation.

Dr. H. V. Glenn, one of the contest founders, said: "If we had started using ducks for judges, Newman would now be wanting us to switch to men."

He and others labeled Newman's marsh contest proposal "about as impractical as anything you can imagine."

Festivities of the contest got under way here last night with a parade.

Newman described the Arkansas duck call as a long series of 75-80 soft, staccato yelps -- "Gee, gee, gee, gee" -- like a run down musical scale.

NBC Cracks Down on Outside Work

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. is reporting all employees who select music for its 11 NBC-owned radio and television stations to swear before notary publics about any outside interests in the music business.

An NBC spokesman said Tuesday night the company has distributed questionnaires inquiring about interests in music publishing or record manufacturing. They are to be completed, notarized and returned to NBC.

The questionnaires are part of the network's self-scrutiny as a result of a congressional investigation of payola -- the practice whereby record companies slip disc jockeys cash to plug records. NBC owns TV stations in New York, Chicago, Washington, Philadelphia and Los Angeles. It owns radio stations in New York, Pittsburgh, Chicago, San Francisco, Philadelphia and Washington.

A Peach of A Pie

Peach pies are always popular, and this glamorous walnut topped beauty has more than one reason to become a favorite. Farm Prices Sure to Be a Vote Issue

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The relative effects of the peace issue and sinking farm prices on the outcome of next year's election came under senatorial debate today.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois conceded that low hog prices and a huge surplus of wheat "offer some real difficulties" to his party in the farm belt.

But Dirksen said he thinks Republican candidates will benefit from President Eisenhower's first-hand efforts to promote world peace. He cited the 11-nation trip on which Eisenhower embarks Thursday in this connection.

Sen. Eugene M. McCarthy (D-Minn.) said in a separate interview the GOP had better not count too heavily on peace as a campaign issue. He added that the world may not be any closer to a settlement of its disputes next November than it is now.

On the other hand, McCarthy said he thinks Republicans will suffer at the polls for low farm prices, which the Agriculture Department said Monday declined another 2 per cent between mid-October and mid-November.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who is regarded as the leading aspirant for his party's 1960 presidential nomination, said recently the farm issue "will very possibly be the major issue on the domestic scene in 1960."

Possibly with that in mind Sen. James E. Murray (D-Mont.) contended in a statement that Nixon had helped put wheat prices "on the skids" by a 1956 tie-breaking vote in the Senate.

Nixon cast the deciding vote then against a Democratic proposal for a return to rigid high-level price supports on basic crops.

Pheasant Pie Hunter's Delight

Over 8 million pheasants are shot in the U. S. each year and they make delicious eating. If your hunter has good luck and you are suddenly oversupplied, remember that you can freeze small game for future use. Pluck, draw and cool game birds quickly. Have game thoroughly clean and dry; wrap meat in moisture-vapor-proof material, to freeze.

Sportsmen and gourmets alike enjoy cold beer or ale with the rewards of the hunt. The beverages relax them and enhance the food. Serve either with this pheasant pie.

Pheasant Pie

1 pheasant—3 to 4 pounds (dressed weight)
1 bay leaf
1 stalk celery
6 peppercorns
1 tablespoon salt
1/2 cup butter
1 cup flour
1 cup light cream

1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1-pound can tiny white onions
1 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms
1 package frozen peas
2 canned pinonillos, sliced
1 box pastry mix

Place pheasant in a large kettle and cover with water. Add bay leaf, celery, peppercorns and 1 tablespoon salt. Bring to boil. Cover and cook over low heat 2 to 3 hours, or until pheasant is tender. Remove meat from bones; strain broth. Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and stir until blended. Gradually add 2 cups of the broth, stirring constantly. Add light cream, Tabasco and salt. Cook, stirring until thickened. Arrange pheasant pieces, onions, mushrooms, peas and pinonillos in a 2-quart casserole. Add sauce, leaving at least 1-inch space at top. Prepare pastry mix. Cut pastry circle 1/2-inch larger than casserole and place over pheasant mixture. Fork or spoon. Garnish top with leaf-shaped pastry cutouts and acorns made by attaching a pastry circle to a fiber with a clove. Bake in preheated 450-degree oven 15 minutes, or until crust is golden brown. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

SASKATCHEWAN WOMEN ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT REFRIGERATOR SLICES

Women in the Prairie Province of Saskatchewan have become most enthusiastic about refrigerator slices and bars and they are a very popular dessert, not only for family dinners but also when entertaining guests at tea, bridge, and all occasions. Following are recipes for some of the most popular, developed by wives of some of the stewards in Canadian National Railways' dining car service:

Marshmallow Cherry Slice

30 graham wafers
1/2 cup marshmallows, cut in quarters
1/2 cup cherries, sliced thin
1/2 cup coconut
1 1/2 cups sweetened condensed milk
1 1/2 cups vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon almond extract

Grate a 9" x 9" pan. Roll graham wafers into the crumbs. Prepare marshmallows, cherries and nuts, add to the crumbs. Mix with sweetened condensed milk and the extracts. Pack into prepared pan, sprinkle with coconut. Chill in refrigerator overnight. Cut in squares.

Chocolate Slice

1/2 cup butter
5 tablespoons sugar
5 tablespoons cocoa
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg unbeaten
2 cups graham wafer crumbs, (21-25)

1 cup coconut
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
Use an ungreased 9" x 9" pan.

Place soft butter, sugar, cocoa, egg and vanilla in a bowl. Set bowl in a pan of hot water. Stir the mixture until the butter has melted and is the consistency of custard. Mix wafer crumbs, coconut, and nuts together. Add to the cocoa mixture. Pack into pan. Spread with the following frosting:

Frosting

4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 cup sifted icing sugar
2 tablespoons vanilla
1 package chocolate chips

Cream butter. Combine milk with the vanilla custard pudding, add to butter, mixing well. Blend in the sifted icing sugar, beating until light and fluffy, add vanilla extract. Spread icing over the chocolate base. Melt the chocolate chips over hot water, add butter and blend until smooth. Spread over the icing. Allow to set, then cut in small squares. A delicious treat.

Florida Ambrosia Dessert

Desserts are good, but the perfect one complements the occasion. Thanksgiving dinner, for instance, is apt to be elaborate than usual. Part grapefruit, sweet oranges and tangerines—all filled with juice—start coming to markets in sunny Florida during November, and their sections are with sugar and coconut to make the simplest and yet most delicious dessert, Ambrosia.

Fruits contain lots of that valuable vitamin C, needed by humans for health and vigor. There's no better way to get your quota of "C" for citrus than in a luscious-looking dessert.

Florida Ambrosia
1 1/2 to 2 cups of sugar
1/2 cup flaked coconut

Take from top of grapefruit, then cut off peel from grapefruit. Cut off slice from bottom of grapefruit. Go over with knife, removing any white membrane. Cut along side of each membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section and, over bowl to retain juice from fruit. To section orange, and round as in paring an apple. Loosen sections as for fruit. Peel tangerines; cut sections in half and remove seeds. Put the fruit into serving dish; sprinkle with half the sugar. Repeat. Chill at least one hour before serving.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Fire gutted the Howard Johnson Restaurant on the new Benton Highway at the southwest edge of Little Rock early today.

No exact estimate of loss was available but it was certain to run into thousands of dollars.

There were no injuries. The fire may have started in the kitchen of the establishment.

Declares Business Shuns Padding

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress was told today that most businessmen shun expense account padding and "swindle sheet" dealing.

Witnesses before the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee conceded abuses exist.

They said, however, Congress should not impose any additional limitations.

Elisha Hanson, general counsel of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn., said the cost of advertising also should be a deductible business expense.

No Execution Dates Before Christmas

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval F. Faubus apparently will not fix any new execution dates for convicted Arkansas slayers until after the Christmas holidays.

Dan Stephens, an aide, said today the governor had indicated to him that he did not want to send anyone to the electric chair until the first part of next year.

Stephens said the cases of four Miller County Negro men sentenced to die for the 1956 robbery-killing of M. R. Hamm, a 76-year-old white man, had been completed through appeals to the Arkansas Supreme Court. Their execution dates must be set by Faubus.

Also hanging is a new death date for Emmett Earl Leggett, convicted of the strangulation murder of a 14-year-old boy in 1953. Leggett recently lost another legal round in the high court.

Faubus' office canceled his few appointments for today and tomorrow because the governor is ill with a cold at the mansion. He had scheduled trips to Benton and Conway tomorrow.

Woodruff Resigns as Florida Coach

GAINESVILLE, Fla., (AP)—Bob Woodruff today resigned as head football coach and athletic director of the University of Florida.

Woodruff took the Florida post in 1950 and his teams have won 53 games, lost 42 and tied 6. The 1959 Gators won 5, lost 4 and tied 1.

The former Tennessee tackle has been under fire continuously this season since a 13-13 tie with Rice in the fourth game, followed by upset loss to Vanderbilt 13-6. There were reports recently that Woodruff would be succeeded at Florida by a one-time assistant, Frank Broyles of the University of Arkansas.

Broyles maintained that the speculation was groundless and at its height signed a new five-year contract with Arkansas.

Dollarway Case to Be Heard Dec. 14

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The newest legal effort by three Negro children to enter the all-white Dollarway School near Pine Bluff will be heard in U.S. District Court the week of Dec. 14.

Judge J. Smith Henley set "a date yesterday. The students have asked him, through a supplemental complaint, to order the Dollarway School Board to admit them to the school.

They obtained such an order last summer but an appeals court voided it and directed the students to apply for transfer under the Arkansas pupil placement law. This was done but the school board rejected their applications.

School board attorneys have asked Henley to dismiss the complaint, or stay proceedings on it on grounds it should have been filed in Jefferson County Circuit Court. Dollarway is in Jefferson County.

Labor Cause of Plants Leaving U. S.

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan says labor-management problems are the cause of increased location of American plants overseas.

McClellan also told the Craighead-Poinsett Medical Society last night that these differences have brought about the expenditure of 25 billion dollars of American money in foreign lands each year. McClellan said about 8 billion dollars in American capital was invested abroad in 1945 but that by 1958 it has increased to 28 billion.

"A great deal of this was brought about because manufacturers can build a plant overseas, produce goods, ship them back here, pay the duty and sell them cheaper than if they were manufactured here."

"Unless this trend is checked," he said, "we're going to lose ground in the world market."

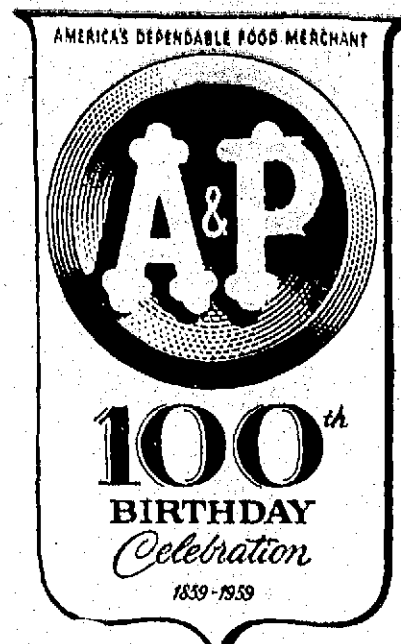

Runaway Girl Is Sentenced

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—Barbara Dianne Plaisted, 14, who ran away to Texas with a milkman, was sentenced today to an indeterminate term in the state home for girls.

Barbara became hysterical when the sentence was pronounced.

The girl testified that Ernest Corrao, 20, the milkman, forced her to have sexual relations with him. She said she went with him because she feared for her life.

Corrao, father of three children, was arrested with the girl in Anaheim, Tex. He told police he left New Jersey to escape creditors and that the girl begged to go along. Corrao recently got three to six years in state prison.
